

ANTI-BULLYING GUIDELINES

RATIONALE

Nexus International School (Singapore) does not tolerate bullying in any of its forms. This document exists to help both prevent and address bullying. The ethos underpinning this is that bullying is better prevented than resolved after harm has occurred. As such, the school commits to making every reasonable effort to create an environment in which bullying does not exist.

This document has been created using information from the DfES guidance document Bullying: Don't Suffer in Silence and reflects current best practice in safeguarding and student welfare.

KEY DEFINITION

As per the DfES guidance this guidelines commences with a definition of bullying:

"The persistent or systematic use of superior strength or influence to intimidate another person (or persons) and/or cause hurt or harm. Such may include physical, sexual, psychological or social hurt or harm and may be made on a racist, sexist or homophobic grounding."

By use of the word systematic the inference is that there is a level of intent. The school considers that bullying occurs when there is an ongoing and persistent pattern of (list not exhaustive):

- Making a learner feel isolated or marginalised
- Stealing or damaging another learner's belongings
- Frightening or forcing others to act against their will
- Physical aggression or threats of violence
- Bullying related to physical and/or mental health conditions
- Emotional bullying
- Sexual bullying
- Prejudicial bullying
- Misuse of ICT, mobile phones or the internet (cyberbullying)

Cyberbullying that takes place outside school hours will be considered a school issue if it impacts a learner and affects their life in school.

Where incidents that take place outside school hours impact learning in school or the ability of members of the school community to function cohesively, the school will take reasonable and proportionate steps to investigate and, where possible, support resolution.

AIMS

This guidelines is intended to:

- Create an inclusive environment that maximises learning, in which learners feel happy, comfortable with each other and themselves, and do not feel the desire to engage in any form of bullying.
- Develop awareness in learners of how their actions affect others and that their actions have consequences.
- Promote understanding of what bullying is and the consequences that may result.
- Provide an effective structure within which to respond should a possible incident of bullying occur.
- Support all members of the community in taking action that minimises bullying within the school and beyond.

REVIEW AND REVISION

This document will be reviewed once every two (02) years or as required to reflect updates to the relevant legislations, TEG group policies or internal school governance standards where applicable.

Guidelines

Responsibilities

All members of the Nexus community — including learners, staff, parents/carers, and school leadership — share responsibility for preventing and responding to bullying.

Role of the Learner

Learners are expected to:

- Strive to uphold the school's core values (RECIPE), particularly 'Respect' and 'Care'.
- Understand that it is unacceptable to intimidate, harm or hurt another person.
- Accept responsibility for their actions and actively engage in restorative practice when required.
- Listen to and respond appropriately to advice and guidance.
- Report concerns promptly as the first and most important step toward resolving issues.

Role of Staff

Staff are expected to:

- Encourage positive relationships based on mutual respect and trust.
- Promote a culture in which bullying is clearly understood to be unacceptable and reporting concerns is viewed as the right and responsible action.
- Ensure learners understand what bullying is, its forms, possible consequences, and the school's response procedures.
- Provide opportunities to discuss bullying through the PSHE programme (homeroom teachers) and at other appropriate times.
- Apply the Engagement and Behaviour Policy and Guidelines consistently.
- Create an environment in which learners feel safe speaking to adults about concerns.
- Communicate promptly with the appropriate Year Leader or designated leader when a possible bullying situation is identified. (see response to bullying below).

Role of Parents and Carers

Parents and carers are expected to:

- Support their child in upholding the school's core values.
- Help their child understand what bullying is and the consequences of engaging in it.
- Inform the school if they have concerns that bullying may be taking place or if relevant information comes to light.

Role of Leadership

School leadership is expected to:

- Provide ongoing professional development for staff regarding prevention and response to bullying.
- Identify times and locations where bullying may be more likely and implement effective safeguarding procedures.
- Ensure every learner knows which trusted adult they can speak to in confidence.

- Maintain and communicate clear procedures for preventing and responding to bullying.
- Promote a positive learning environment where bullying is minimised and respect and care for others is central to the way in which all members of our community function.

Response to Bullying

- Firstly if behaviour is reviewed and if it is isolated instances of poor behavioural choices that do not meet the criteria of bullying are dealt with by the homeroom teacher / tutor adhering to the Engagement and Behaviour Policy and Guidelines.
- Secondly if the incident(s) are considered bullying, potentially bullying or a pattern of bullying emerges during investigating other incidents, the issue is immediately referred to the appropriate teacher/leader, or when deemed more serious a Deputy Head of School (according to the level of concern - see Engagement and Behaviour Policy and Guidelines).
- The designated leader takes any possible initial precautionary steps to ensure that a learner who may have been bullied feels safe, protected and reassured.
- In most instances the parents of the victim should be informed.

Investigation

- The designated teacher/leader discretely investigates the known facts, e.g., when incidents have occurred, who was involved, and collects evidence from multiple sources (victim, other learners, staff, video recordings, on-line posts etc).
- Incidents that take place outside of school hours (e.g., cyberbullying), the greatest efforts possible must be made to investigate thoroughly.
- If the nature of the bullying represents a safeguarding concern, a DSL/O is informed immediately.
- In most instances at this time the parents of the perpetrator(s) should be informed.
- Guidelines in the Engagement and Behaviour Policy and Guidelines are used to respond to incidents and parents/carers are kept up to date.
- A log of incidents and related actions should be kept by key members of the school student welfare team(s).

Outcomes

- Subsequent decisions are often taken in liaison with the victim/victim's family and must consider any impact these actions might have on the victim.
- The designated leader ensures that appropriate support is provided to the victim, as well as to the perpetrator(s) towards correcting their behaviour(s).
- Clear and strategic actions must be planned and carried out; all actions taken by the school should be recorded. It may be appropriate to use the inclusive support referral system to refer the bully and/or the victim for additional support. Plans of response should include a specific follow-up after a prescribed period of time.
- If appropriate, external agencies are involved.
- If the problem persists the agreed consequences are applied.

Longer-Term Response

- Review of the issue must be undertaken post issue.
- Should bullying continue it must be reported immediately to the leader who has been dealing with the issue. At this point consequences of continued bullying are reinforced and the outcome of subsequent behaviour taken very seriously; this may include suspension or exclusion.
